

There will be a surprise test in the Machine Learning class during the Perceptron lecture, where you will be required to derive gradient descent.